that there is a love story in the plot of "The Peasant Girl," the new operetta which comes to the Forty-fourth Street Theatre next Monday night, with Emma Trentini and Clifton Crawford adorning the cast. Clifton Crawford is not one of the lovers. He has the tragic role of an also-ran, a part which gives him the chance to be foriornly funny.

Dr. M. H. Harris, president of the Eastern Council, said the unanimous opinion of the rabbis in the city was absolutely against the bill. They hold that to make Bible reading mandatory in the public schools would be a blow at the constitutional principle of separating church affairs from those of the state.

Golden Rule Brotherhood Becomes Mutual Welfare League
